

ANTH 3398: Internship in Anthropology

variable 1-12 Credit Hours

Prerequisite: 60 credit hours completed and permission of the instructor.

The internship class is a structured off-campus experience in a supervised setting that is related to the student's major. Practical experience is combined with academic assignments in the topical area of the internship. Sites must be selected in advance of the semester of the internship.

ANTH 3521: Ethnography of Media: Global Perspectives

3 Credit Hours

Prerequisite: ANTH 1102, or permission of the instructor.

This course examines how media images and usage shape the identities of individuals and groups around the world. Drawing on ethnographic studies done by anthropologists, this course prepares students to see how representations of peoples, places, practices, and events in the media shape our ideas about others and ourselves. Individuals' and groups' relationship with the media is the key element in understanding how people relate to each other within and across cultures and political boundaries.

ANTH 3777: Global Ethnographies of Labor

3 Credit Hours

Prerequisite: ANTH 1102

This course establishes the centrality of labor in understanding social identities and social change around the world. It emphasizes the cross-cultural meaning of "labor." Through ethnographies, it locates the effects of larger global processes like development, war, tourism, and their changing impact on meaning of labor for people's individual and collective identities.

ANTH 3999: Anthropology of Gender

3 Credit Hours

Prerequisite: ANTH 1102

This course introduces students to anthropological approaches to studying gender relationships in various cultural contexts. It familiarizes students with the relationship between feminism and anthropology. It examines how the research of feminist anthropologists shaped the central theoretical, methodological, and ethical concerns within anthropology. It also emphasizes why ethnographic methods are essential for understanding the complex gender relationships in a globalizing world.
