

ANTH 4100: Directed Applied Research

1-6 Credit Hours

Prerequisite: Any upper-division anthropology course and approval of the instructor and department chair.

This course offers students an opportunity to investigate anthropologically-oriented concepts and issues by assisting in faculty-led research or scholarship. Course content and instructional methodologies are identified by the faculty's needs and expectations.

ANTH 4150: Greek Osteology Field School

3-6 Credit Hours

Prerequisite: Permission of the Instructor

This course is an intensive introduction to osteological field work. The students work directly with the professor in learning how to clean, conserve, and inventory human skeletal remains from archaeological sites. The work is hands-on with substantial reading required in order to complete the analyses in the field.

ANTH 4400: Directed Study in Anthropology

1-3 Credit Hours

Prerequisite: Approval of the instructor and department chair.

Covers special topics and seminars external to regular course offerings. May include original research projects and practicum experiences.

ANTH 4405: Human Variation

3 Credit Hours

Prerequisite: ANTH 1105

This course provides an understanding of the nature and extent of human biological variation, as well as an understanding of how it is studied. The course focuses on two separate yet inter-connected topics: the biological variation that exists within our species, Homo sapiens; and the concept of race.
